Jio, Airtel, Vodafone oppose allocation of premium 700 MHz spectrum to railways

PRESS TRUST OF INDIA
 New Delhi, July 29

MOBILE OPERATORS
RELIANCE Jio, Bharti Airtel and Vodafone Idea have vehemently opposed allocation of premium 700 MHz spectrum to railways for specific services, citing commercial value of such radiowaves and the potential for 4G and 5G offerings.

The mobile telephony services industry — otherwise polarised over a range of issues —has spoken in one voice this time to assert that spectrum allotted to the Railways for captive use should not be utilised for commercial services for passengers (wi-fi and internet offerings) as such services should be provided by entities that hold a valid licence.

Reliance Jio said that the Railways should not be permitted to offer commercial services like Wi-Fi and voice and video communication, without obtaining authorisation under the Unified Licence. The Railways should obtain commercial spectrum for commercial use via auction like all other interested parties, it said.

"...we do not agree with the Indian Railways demand for reserving 15 MHz spectrum in 700 MHz spectrum band for LTE (Long Term Evolution) based communication corridor...The spectrum in 700 MHz band should not be allocated to Indian Railways for Radiocommunication Systems between Train and Trackside (RSTT) due to its commercial use and being a backbone band for 4G-5G services," Reliance Jio said in its response to regulatory consultation on the matter.

The suitable allocation for such captive use should be in the 450-470 MHz spectrum band, it opined.

"The department of telecom (DoT) has rightly noted that considering the limited spectrum available in 700 MHz band and the fact that this digital dividend spectrum has immense potential for coverage in wide and rural areas, the spectrum for railways may be explored beyond this band and that the spectrum in 450-470 MHz seems most suitable for this purpose," Jio said.

Jio said it strongly disagrees with the proposal to use the RSTT radiowaves for providing Wi-Fi services to passengers and using the spectrum for digital data network communication for voice, video and other applications as well as IoT-based services "as the same are commercial services and can be provisioned only under Unified Licence authorisation by DoT".

The operator, however, termed as "valid and legitimate", the Railways' requirements to provide mission-critical passenger safety services and applications, video surveillance through close circuit cameras in trains, along with video analytics.

"The Railways is a commercial organisation and it can very well take the requisite licences and auction acquired spectrum to hold a valid licence.
